GLADIOLI FOR 1941

LOYD'S
DAHLIA

PICTURE ON FRONT COVER

The photo of an extremely tall Bagdad, Mrs. Lloyd and one of our trucks. This Bagdad grew and bloomed. No, we didn't use Vitamin B. The cut spike measures 70 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches, not cut low in the field, but as we cut commercially. The picture shows almost all the spike in bloom with the lower three florets almost gone and the two side shoots nearly all open. Just a freak that is unlikely to be duplicated.

GLADIOLI FOR 1941

We wish to thank our many friends for the most successful season we ever had and to assure you of our appreciation of your patronage and to express the hope that we shall merit the continuance of the confidence you have in us and our flowers.

Our best asset is our satisfied customers - they tell others. One of our best recommendations is probably the fact that, year after year, a number of our customers call at the gardens, make their selections of varieties, pay for them and have shipment made at planting time for their locality.

For the past several years we have had the reputation of growing the best Gladioli for size, beauty and keeping qualities to be obtained in southern New Jersey. We are trying to maintain that reputation. To do so, we must plant only good, solid, well grown corms of the best selected varieties. We have discontinued over three hundred varieties in recent years, taking on the newer and better as they are introduced and prove superior to those they replace in that they have greater beauty, longer stems and flower heads, a larger number of flowers and buds, which open up all the way to the top of the spike and keep longer after being cut.

Our test table is one of the toughest in the world - our open retail display stand in front of our farm. Any flower which, after being cut and placed in water, will stand up out there in the wind will surely give satisfaction in the protection of your home.

The Gladioli corms you receive from us to grow in your garden are from the same lots which we plant to maintain our reputation. You may receive the better appearing corms as we try to select these for you. If you call at our farm, you may personally select the individual corms for planting in your garden, just as you have always selected the individual cut flowers you have purchased at our farm or branch retail stand during the blooming season each year. We want you to be satisfied with every purchase from Lloyds.

You are cordially invited to visit our gardens and view the plants in full bloom. Gladioli are at their best from July 20th on. Dahlias from September till frost.

LOCATION — We are on the south side of the Somers Point-Mays Landing road at Scullville, Atlantic County, N. J. Eleven miles from Mays Landing, Three miles from Somers Point, six miles from Ocean City and fourteen miles from Atlantic City. To visit our gardens from Atlantic City or Ocean City, drive to Somers Point, around the traffic circle at the Ocean City bridge, take the road leading direct away from the bridge toward Mays Landing. Straight ahead for about three miles. Our gardens and retail stand will be on your left. Look for the Aluminum painted stand and the yellow signs bearing our monogrammed name.

In presenting this list of gladioli we have made no attempt to include the new introductions or high priced novelties. We are offering what we believe to be tested, tried and true varieties which we are or will be using and selling for cut flowers, our main business, both in the retail and wholesale market. We have tried to list their shortcomings, as grown here, and have endeavored to praise only those whose behavior, as they grow for us, warrant. Our corms are grown on sandy soil and are as free from disease as we can grow them. They are treated as a precaution before planting and sprayed during the growing season.

SIZES — Large corms are one inch and upward in diameter. Medium are three quarters to one inch in diameter. Small are under three quarters of an inch. Not all varieties bloom from small corms. They are purchased to grow on for larger corms for planting the following year. Medium corms bloom well but do not make quite as large flowers or as tall plants as large corms. If you wish tall plants and large flowers that can win prizes at the shows, purchase large corms.

Each variety is packed separately with correct label. These wood labels, with copper wire attached, if kept a foot or more above the soil, will be legible for a season or longer. Cultural directions are included with each order.

All prices are prepaid where cash accompanies the order. On C. O. D. orders all charges are collect. Gladioli orders will be shipped about April 15th unless requested earlier. Please give shipping date. Early orders will receive the most and better extras.

The number of days to bloom, size of florets, number of florets open and number of open flowers and buds to the spike is approximate, as grown here from plantings made about May 20th. These may be varied somewhat by different soils, climate, fertilizer and moisture conditions. A number of varieties when well grown under favorable conditions give much larger blooms than we get here growing for commercial cut flowers only.

GLADIOLI 1941

AFLAME. (Hornberger). 80-85 days. 6-8 open. 5-6 ins. A bright, rich orange red, when well grown often reaches 5-6 feet high with 5-6½ in. florets. The largest of primis.

Large 1 - 5c 3 - 15c 6 - 30c 12 - 50c

ALADDIN. (Palmer) (Canada) 80-85 days. 6-8 open. 5-7 ins. A very ruffled bright beautiful pink deepening at edges with a pleasing creamy yellow throat. Strong growth with heavy foliage, medium height or taller. Makes lots of bulblets which germinate well. A bulblet planted in the greenhouse in March bloomed for us with 14 florets. The bottom flower measuring 5 ins. A must have for the show table.
